Support your team's video content velocity, security, and scale with Frame.io.
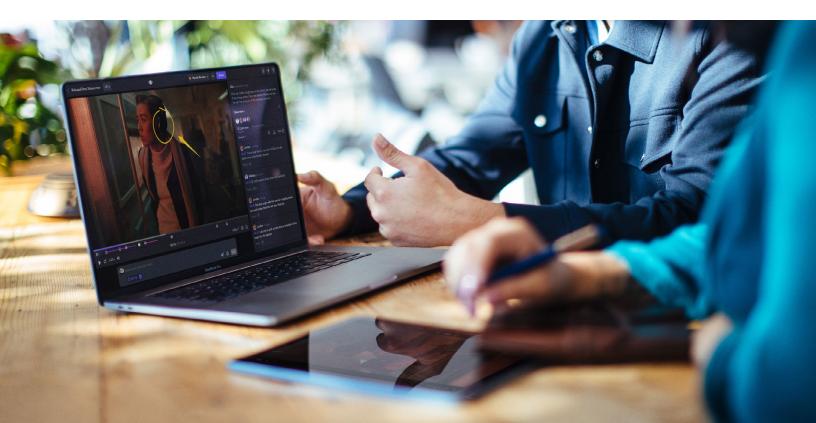

As an IT administrator reviewing tools for enterprise video teams, you're looking for cloud-based software that can do two things—support creative production needs and meet the provisioning, security, and integration requirements you care about most.

Video production at the enterprise level means a lot of collaborators, projects, and assets. This complexity makes it difficult to find a one-size-fits-all solution for both creative and IT needs. As a result, teams often have to patch together several different tools, which can compromise productivity, efficiency, and security.

To keep content production moving smoothly, you need an integrated platform that supports smart video production workflows and seamless collaboration across teams and timezones—while also protecting your data and intellectual property.

The solution.

Frame.io Enterprise is a secure, scalable collaboration platform that helps video teams manage assets, centralize feedback, and deliver content faster. With a focus on security and flexibility, your teams can work effectively together from anywhere without causing administrative headaches.

Power seamless collaboration with secure tools.

Streamline video production processes economically and securely.

Frame.io helps you:

- Empower your team with an intuitive platform for both creative users and collaborators inside and outside your organization

- Support effective team communication with a centralized solution for reviews and file sharing

- Reinforce security measures bolstered by customizable permissions

- Maintain legal requirements with centralized tools that manage asset and external sharing

- Manage costs with simple team provisioning, automated asset lifecycle management, and project archives

- Connect seamlessly with existing software your organization is already using for project management, communication, and asset management

> "We consider our player wires and everything else as very sensitive content. But you can overdo security to the point that the person who needs to see it can't access it, so having a range of security options from the very highest level to almost completely open was important. We've tested the security from our end, from our security and IT ops, and they've agreed that [Frame.io] meets our standards.

Travis Boyer
Director of Media Administration
NFL Films

Frame.io simplified IT administration for NFL Films by providing flexible project permissioning and security options to support its wide range of needs. Options like SSO and 2FA let creatives get right to work while credential management happens safely and consistently behind the scenes.

Safeguard your business's content and credentials with flexible enterprise features.

Multi-team management.
Easy-to-use admin tools ensure the right team members see the right projects.

Asset lifecycle management.
Automatic archiving with custom settings helps you save on storage costs.

Single sign-on (SSO).
SSO simplifies the login process and cuts down on IT support requests.

Two-factor authentication (2FA).
2FA adds another layer of protection on top of your basic login credentials.

Digital rights management (DRM).
Copy protection stops unauthorized viewing of pre-release content.

Personalized watermarks.
Watermark ID dynamically overlays viewer name, IP address, and view date.

Frame.io is a scalable video collaboration platform that can cut video turnaround times by 31% and improve client satisfaction by 36%. Accelerate your production workflows by sending media right from your camera to stakeholders anywhere with Camera to Cloud. Streamline your creative process with centralized asset storage, seamless integrations with Adobe Premiere Pro and After Effects, and frame-accurate video reviews so you can collaborate in real time with distributed team members.
